PTT spoke with the General about the IP's being more proactive in the Province and instead of making excuses and having a "can't do" attitude; we encouraged him to have his subordinates instill a "can do" attitude in the IP's under their command. PTT made the General aware that this attitude starts with him and his commanders; further the commanders and the IPs need to be held accountable for their actions or inactions.

Two intelligence officers notified the team that a known terrorist from Baghdad was arrested in the Diwaniyah area. Instead of searching the suspect's residence IPs stated they didn't have enough manpower and that all the IPs were busy because of the security situation in Diwaniyah. The team reminded the General that there were too many excuses being made by IPs not doing their job. The team also reminded him there are in excess of 6, 600 IP's in the Province. IPs could have been found to assist in the search and to prevent the loss of any evidence the search may have yielded.
