BG [redacted] was advised of logistical shortfalls in the facility and related that he would provide what assistance he could.

PTT spoke with an electronics technician aboard FOB Diamondback and discussed the problem encountered with the Motorola 360 radios which have been issued to the IP in Ninewah Province. The technician examined one of the radios which displayed the words "Code Plug Error" on the LED display on the face of the radio. He then utilized a disc provided by Motorola in an attempt to reprogram the radio. He discovered that when this particular series of Motorola 360 radios are exposed to emissions from a Warlock system that it removes the memory from the computer chip (firmware) that holds the radios "memory and frequency". He explained that only a "firmware upgrade" would correct the problem and provided the names of two companies in this area, who could provide a fix for the problem. He identified Stealth Telecom in the UAE and Danimex Communication A/S with an office in the International Zone, Baghdad, Iraq.

PTT was provided with a "blind hub" to be utilized in networking several computers which are being placed in the TOC, NPHQ. PTT was also provided with the data to create a small office network for the computers in the TOC which would enable the OIC of the TOC to monitor all data input by the various "call takers", who receive calls from the various DHQ and LPS within the Province.

The LTC was visited by five men from the MOI to discuss how to improve the station. PTT assembled a generator and explained the capabilities for its use including no air conditioners, no swamp coolers, lighting and appliances, computers and things that use little electricity. The LTC was very happy to receive the generator and advised PTT that it would help his station very much. (b)(6), (b)(7)(c)

(MI0606) Crime Lab Station: PTT met with station commander MG [redacted]. PTT discussed the current needs of the station with regards to forensic equipment and supplies. The Crime Lab's stock of fingerprint powders is low. Some of the powders that were received from CF have already expired and need to be replaced. The lab is currently out of stock of plaster impression materials, DFO, iodine wands, Polaroid film and silver nitrate products. There is no current operating budget to replace these items. PTT made recommendations that the lab compile a budget proposal to PHQ for these items. PTT advised that the lab should have a monthly budget that would allow them to order supplies as needed. MG [redacted] advised that he has previously made this request through PHQ and it was denied due to budget constraints. PTT will be working through the KMOI to resolve this issue and hopefully have a monthly budget put in place. (b)(6), (b)(7)(c)

MG [redacted] advised that he continues to seek training abroad for the crime lab staff. He has made numerous inquires about the availability of training to the KRG that have gone unanswered. MG [redacted] did receive an invitation from the Baghdad MOI's office that was arranging for 30 IP officers through the country to travel to London for crime lab training. MG [redacted] advised that he received this invitation two months after its expiration where 30 IP were already selected from Baghdad.

PTT is still working to establish an account through Sirchie for the crime lab. If this account can be established, the lab will be able to order their supplies without CF support. An operating budget for the lab is crucial to this plan.

(MI0013) Dashti Hawler DHQ: PTT facilitated the delivery of a generator to the DHQ for use in powering the station during the frequent power outages. BG [redacted] advised that he was most thankful and it would be used mainly for the policemen working at night. PTT also discussed the recent field training conducted at the HQ in building search techniques. The commander advised that all the personnel who participated were very happy with this type training because they felt it was more appropriate for their jobs. All the staff advised that it was much more helpful to them, and that they would also benefit from hands on type training. PTT explained to them that most of the time classroom instruction accompanied the hands-on typically prior to the actual hands-on. The commander asked if it would be possible to get other classes set up at the other stations in his District in persons and vehicle searches. The commander is concerned that there are a lot of people moving in from the southern regions of Iraq and that with them will become an increased amount of violence. PTT advised the BG that most of those being allowed to move in to the region were trying to escape the violence in the south themselves and come to a better place. PTT advised that we would set up more classes in the very near future and try to schedule it for all seven stations in his District.

(MI0036) Irbil Vehicle Maintenance Police: PTT visited the Vehicle Maintenance Police station to gather information about parts for the police vehicles. LTC [redacted], the station commander, said gave PTT a list of parts for the new F-350 Ford diesel trucks, the Chevrolet Luv and the Chevrolet 3500 trucks that he cannot find to buy. PTT made photos of the outdated and almost non-serviceable facility for inclusion in the report for a new maintenance facility to be funded by CPATT. LTC [redacted] said he has 41 mechanics that only have self taught knowledge. None of the mechanics have the training to be able to work on the new Ford trucks. LTC [redacted] said they need to send the mechanics outside the country for training or have a trainer come to them. PTT noted the maintenance garage was nearly full of vehicles to be repaired. Many of them are down for lack of a supplier of parts. PTT agreed to get information on suppliers as soon as possible.

(TS0008) Sulay PHQ: The PTT continued the fifth and final week of the 40-day advanced accident investigations course today at the Sulaymaniyah Police Academy. This course is being conducted at the request of MG [redacted] to insure his police investigators have an understanding of accident investigation, as they have the duty under Iraqi Law to present the case to the Investigative Judges in fatality cases. Today's lesson required the students to utilize all their new skills in this field to conduct various calculations, in order to determine all of the factors contributing to an accident. This included determining vehicle initial speeds, rates of acceleration, and/or deceleration, and relevant time studies. The class continues to progress, and has developed a good understanding of all the facets involved in conducting a through investigation in motor vehicle collisions. The students for the most part are demonstrating their ability to properly evaluate, document and collect the necessary data, to reach the appropriate findings in motor vehicle collisions.
